

This research paper examines the core principles of color camouflage and how each of these principles creates a specific illusionary effect. The focus of this research is not to achieve a better form of camouflage but rather to explore how color camouflage creates illusions and how these illusions can be used in the built environment.

