

Project Engineer

Full-Time · Immediate Start · New Graduates Welcome · Richland, WA

THE ROLE

Fowler is hiring Project Engineers for large-scale commercial projects across the Pacific Northwest. You own the technical side of the build: submittals, RFIs, procurement, and the documentation that keeps a jobsite moving.

You will work shoulder to shoulder with Project Managers and Superintendents, split your time between the office and an active site, and watch the work you manage on paper get built. Our Project Engineers move up: Senior Project Engineer, Project Manager, and Superintendent.

WHAT YOU'LL DO

- Track contracts with subcontractors, suppliers, and consultants.
- Drive submittals, RFIs, ASIs, material procurement, and change orders to closure.
- Support schedules and budgets, and flag risk, including through BIM coordination, before it reaches the field.
- Provide technical and on-site support to the PM and Superintendent.
- Coordinate and document owner, subcontractor, and pre-installation meetings.
- Analyze bid packages and proposals, and assist in preparing construction documents.
- Maintain as-builts, quality documentation, and project closeout.
- Monitor and enforce Fowler's safety program.

WHO THRIVES HERE

- You follow through. If you said it, it is done.
- You raise problems early, with a fix in mind.
- You are hungry, humble, and smart.
- You are organized. Nothing slips through the cracks.
- You would rather be on the jobsite than at a desk.
- You are building a career, not filling a seat.

WHAT YOU BRING

- Associates degree required. Bachelor's in Construction Management preferred.
- Comfortable working on an active jobsite, in the field and in the office.
- Strong communication with owners, designers, and trade partners.
- Valid driver's license.
- New graduates are encouraged to apply.

A plus: Procore, Bluebeam, CAD, Revit, Navisworks, DBIA or LEED.

PAY AND BENEFITS
